The only exception is for a process color that does not have the Global option selected in the Swatch Options dialog box. To merge multiple watches, select two or more samples and select Merge samples from the Swatches panel menu. The first selected watch name and color value replace all other selected watches. To delete a watch, select one or more samples. Select Delete Swatch from the panel menu, click the Delete Swatch button, or drag the selected samples to the Delete Swatch button. When you delete a process or global color clock (or a pattern or gradient containing a local or global process color), all objects painted with these colors are converted to the non-global process color equivalent. To set sampling options, double-click an existing watch or select New Swatch from the Swatches panel. Specifies the watch name in the Swatches panel. Specifies whether swatch is a process color or exact color. Creates a global process color watch. Specifies the color mode of the watch. After selecting the color mode you want, you can use the color sliders to adjust the color. If you select a color that is not secure on the web, a warning cube appears. Click the cube to change to the nearest color of the web-safe (which is displayed to the right of the cube). If you select an out-of-range color, a warning triangle appears. Click the triangle to switch to the nearest CMYK equivalent (which is displayed to the right of the triangle). Displays color adjustments on any objects to which the watch is applied. Swatch Options
